The first problem in my AI company was a space in my name.

swipe →

What is Paperclip?

An open source tool that runs a team of AI agents like a small company.

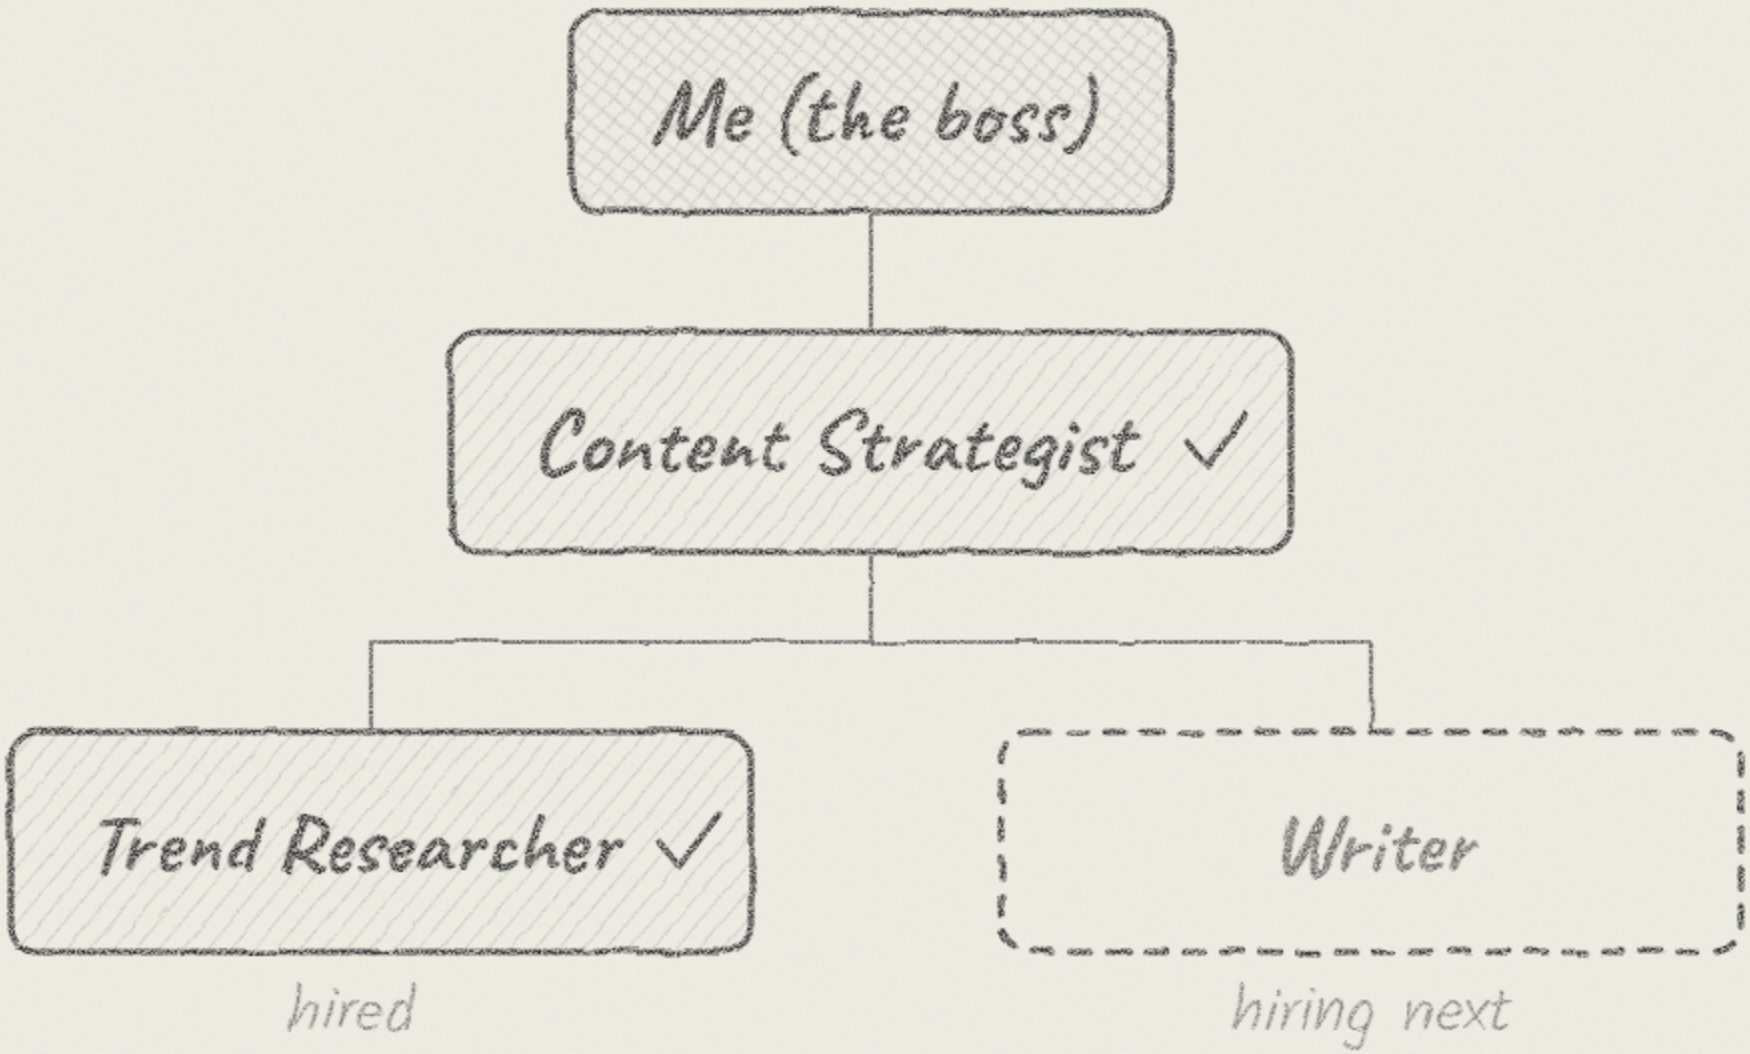

every agent gets all three

swipe →

LinkedIn Brand Studio

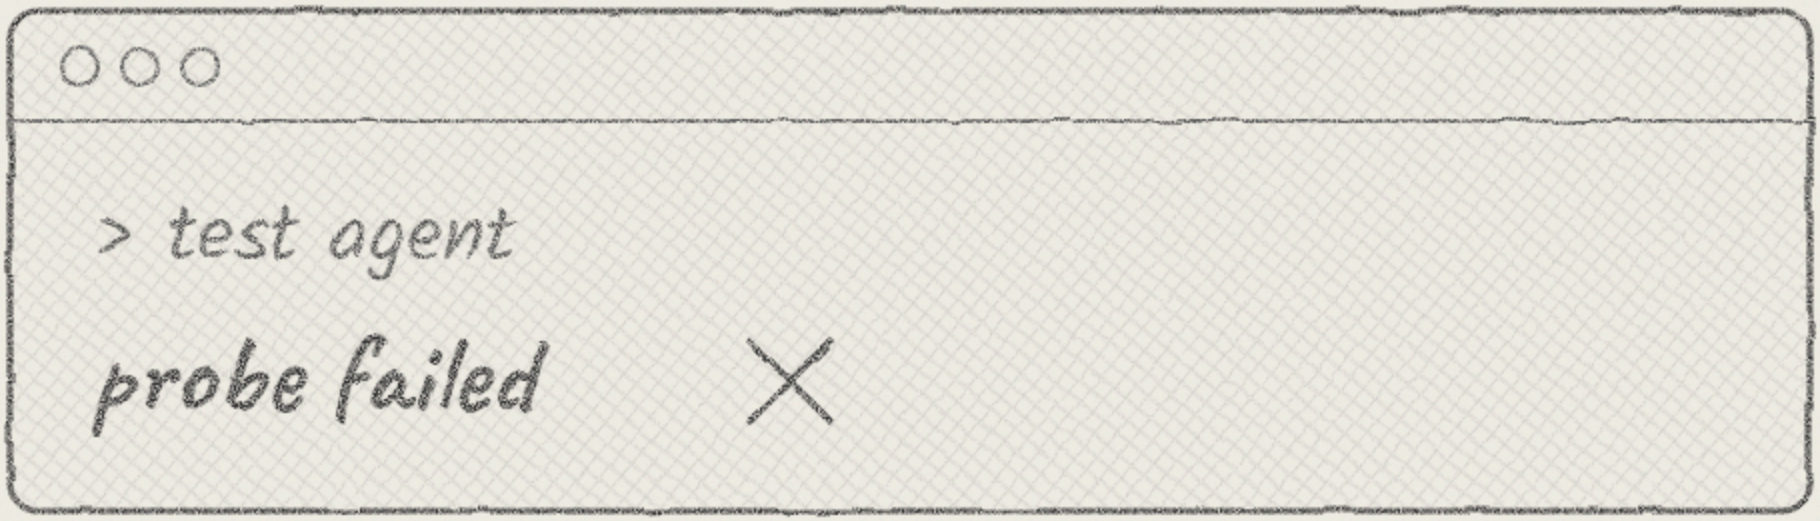

my AI company, day 5

First real job done: 3 post ideas.
Two of them became my first two posts.

swipe →

What broke

The cause, after a lot of digging:

C:\Users\FAIZAN AKHTAR

Fix: one PATH change. Then it worked.

Bonus bug: my neck stretch reminder ran inside every agent run too, quietly using my Claude quota. Fixed.

swipe →

Rules for my AI team

- [x] They draft. I post.
  No posting, liking or commenting on LinkedIn. Ever.

- [x] One file of real facts.
  They are not allowed to invent numbers.

- [x] Small limits.
  Claude Pro plan: short runs, no automatic schedule yet.

swipe →

Being the "agent boss"

is less about prompts and more about setting limits and checking the work.

research, drafting, the boring repeats judgment

What boring task would you hand to an AI teammate first?

Tell me in the comments.

Faizan Akhtar AI automation for boring, repetitive work